

1 tremendous ability and foresight.

2 I am sure that as population changes are 3 reflected in redistricting and more and more people come
4 in from the enlightened sections of the State, they will be 5 wanting to do these things on their own and if you would 6 just publish this part of the debate and see that the 7 legislature gets it, we could leave out all of this business 8 that we are sticking in here to cause trouble and you will 9 be giving them your considered opinion, and I think there
10 is no one here who disagrees with many of the objectives
11 which you have, and I think we can rely, since we have 12 strengthened the legislative branch of our government so 13 beautifully, and since we have expressed our confidence and 14 approval of their recent actions and can expect wonderful
15 things from them in the future, let's leave it up to them
16 to follow right as we have laid it down in this debate for 17 them to follow. I think they can do this by rule. I 18 think they will do this by rule.

19 THE CHAIRMAN: Are you ready for the question?

20 Delegate Boyce.

21 DELEGATE BOYCE: Just one statement, Mr. President.
